Relationship

I felt heard, understood, and respected.

I did not feel heard, understood, and respected.

Goals and Topics

We worked on and talked about what I wanted to work on and talk about.

We did not work on or talk about what I wanted to work on and talk about.

Approach or Method

The therapist’s approach is a good fit for me.

The therapist’s approach is not a good fit for me.

Overall

Overall, today’s session was right for me.

There was something missing in the session today.

How was our time together today? Please put a mark on the lines below to let us know how you feel.

Listening

I did not always listen to me.

I listened to me.

How Important

What we did and talked about was not really that important to me.

What we did and talked about were important to me.

What We Did

I did not like what we did today.

I liked what we did today.

Overall

I wish we could do something different.

I hope we do the same kind of things next time.

I’m going to ask some questions about four different areas of your life, including your individual, interpersonal, and social functioning. Each of these questions is based on a 0 to 10 scale, with 10 being high (or very good) and 0 being low (or very bad).

Thinking back over the last week (or since our last conversation), how would you rate:

1. How you have been doing personally? (On the scale from 0 to 10)
   a. If the client asks for clarification, you should say “yourself,” “you as an individual,” “your personal functioning.”
   b. If the client gives you two numbers, you should ask, “which number would you like me to put?” or, “is it closer to X or Y?”
   c. If the client gives one number for one area of personal functioning and offers another number for another area of functioning, then go with the lowest score.

2. How have things been going in your relationships? (On the scale from 0 to 10)
   a. If the client asks for clarification, you should say “in your family,” “in your close personal relationships.”
   b. If the client gives you two numbers, you should ask, “which number would you like me to put?” or, “is it closer to X or Y?”
   c. If the client gives one number for one family member or relationship type and offers another number for another family member or relationship type, then go with the lowest score.

3. How have things been going for you socially? (on the scale from 0 to 10)
   a. If the client asks for clarification, you should say, “your life outside the home or in your community,” “work,” “school,” “church.”
   b. If the client gives you two numbers, you should ask, “which number would you like me to put?” or, “is it closer to X or Y?”
   c. If the client gives one number for one aspect of his/her social functioning and then offers another number for another aspect, then go with the lowest score.

4. So, given your answers on these specific areas of your life, how would you rate how things are in your life overall?

The client’s responses to the specific outcome questions should be used to transition into counseling. For example, the counselor could identify the lowest score given and then use that to inquire about that specific area of client functioning (e.g., if the client rated the items a 7, 7, 2, 5, the counselor could say, “From our responses, it appears that you’re having some problems in your relationships. Is that right?) After that, the counseling proceeds as usual.
I’m going to ask some questions about our session today, including how well you felt understood, the degree to which we focused on what you wanted to talk about, and whether our work together was a good fit. Each of these questions is based on a 0 to 10 scale, with 10 being high (or very good) and 0 being low (or very bad).

Thinking back over our conversation, how would you rate:

1. On a scale of 0-10, to what degree did you feel heard and understood today, 10 being completely and 0 being not at all?
   a. If the client gives you two numbers, you should ask, “which number would you like me to put?” or “is it closer to X or Y?”
   b. If the client gives one number for heard and another for understood, then go with the lowest score.

2. On a scale of 0-10, to what degree did we work on the issues that you wanted to work on today, 10 being completely and 0 being not at all?
   a. If the client asks for clarification, you should ask, “did we talk about what you wanted to talk about or address? How well on a scale from 0 – 10?”
   b. If the client gives you two numbers, you should ask, “which number would you like me to put?” or “is it closer to X or Y?”

3. On a scale of 0-10, how well did the approach, the way I/we worked, make sense and fit for you?
   a. If the client gives you two numbers, you should ask, “which number would you like me to put?” or “is it closer to X or Y?”
   b. If the client gives one number for make sense and then offers another number for fit, then go with the lowest score.

4. So, given your answers on these specific areas, how would you rate how things were in today’s session overall, with 10 meaning that the session was right for you and 0 meaning that something important that was missing from the visit?
   a. If the client gives you two numbers, you should ask, “which number would you like me to put?” or “is it closer to X or Y?”
